About

Digitaliseringsdirektoratet (Digdir), also known as the Norwegian Digitalisation Agency, is a government agency in Norway tasked with spearheading digital transformation across public sector services.

Digdir's primary mission is to promote and facilitate digitalization within the public sector to improve efficiency, service delivery, and accessibility for citizens.

The agency handles a wide range of responsibilities, including developing national strategies for digital transformation, managing digital infrastructure and services, and ensuring interoperability between various public sector IT systems.

Andreas Rafaelsen has worked with the development of Altinn since 2010 and has held roles as architect, solution manager, and most recently head of the development section since 2018.

He also has several years of experience from Kongsberg Spacetec, as project manager and developer. Rafaelsen holds a degree in computer science from the University of Tromsø.

SUCCESS STORIES

Today, I have the pleasure of speaking with Andreas Rafaelsen who is Department director at the Directorate of Digitalisation (DigDir) in Norway, a valued customer of Futureworks.

Let's delve into their experience with implementing and managing OKRs effectively with the help of Futureworks:

Can you share with us some of the specific challenges your organization faced with OKRs before utilizing Futureworks' software and onboarding services?

Absolutely. Before partnering with Futureworks, our main struggles revolved around the lack of visible OKR dependencies and low compliance with OKR principles and rules. We found it challenging to set meaningful OKRs aligned with our organizational objectives.

How did Futureworks' software and onboarding services help address these challenges?

Futureworks' software provided an intuitive interface that simplified OKR maintenance and enhanced transparency across teams. Their onboarding team facilitated workshops, helping us define meaningful OKRs aligned with our organizational objectives and provided insights into setting measurable key results.

That sounds promising. Can you share any measurable outcomes or achievements directly attributed to the combined use of Futureworks' software and onboarding services for OKRs?

Certainly. Through the combined use of Futureworks' offerings, we witnessed increased knowledge and compliance with OKR principles, improved visibility into dependencies and progress, and enhanced alignment of OKRs with our organizational objectives.

How would you describe the overall synergy between Futureworks' software and onboarding services in optimizing your OKR process?

The synergy between Futureworks' software and onboarding services was excellent. The intuitive software interface facilitated tracking, monitoring, and progress evaluation of OKRs, while the onboarding team provided valuable insights and recommendations for refining our OKR strategy and implementation.

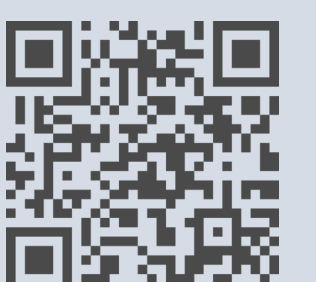

Were there any particular features or functionalities within Futureworks' software that stood out to you as especially beneficial for OKR management?

Absolutely. Features such as OKR check-in meetings, visualization tools, dashboards, and the overall focus it creates were especially beneficial for our OKR management.

Lastly, would you recommend Futureworks' combined software and onboarding services to other organizations seeking to improve their OKR implementation and management?

Without a doubt. I highly recommend Futureworks' combined offering to any organization looking to enhance their OKR implementation and management. The integration of theory, implementation, and tools in one package proved invaluable for driving our organizational success.

Thank you for sharing your insights and experiences with us. It's clear that Futureworks' software and onboarding services have made a significant impact on your OKR journey.
